norning in the four-story trown stone dwelling, 612 Flith avenue, occupied by Mrs. M. C. own as a boarding house, and so rapidly did the flames apread that it was with great difficulty that Mrs. Brown, who is an invalid, her sixteen-year-old daughter and a colored serwant, escaped in safety. In some man er not yet explained the flames burst out on the second floor and quickly spread to the sleeping-r-oms above.

Mrs. Brown some weeks ago suramed her ankle, and the injured limb was incased to a plaster-cast, preventing her from moving unassisted. Her servant, with the assistance of a couple of firemen, carried the helpiess woman from the burning house just in the nick of time. She and her daugnter found refuge from the key blasts in the Euck ngham liotel at Fifth avenue and Fifther street.

The fire meantime, blazed away so briskly that a second alarm was sounded. An air shaft running from the bearment to the roof afforded plenty of vent for the flames, and from the second fi or up the house and furniture were very considerably damaged.

Messenger Solomon Charged With Stealing a $2,500 Diamond Pin.

Nineteen-year-old John Sloman of a $2,500 diamond pin, from Mrs. Clara Collins, wife of Art Dealer S. Collins, who lives at the Metropolitan Hotel. Mrs. Collins has a rare and valuable collection of precious gems. The stolen bauble was a bar pin of three stones a Christmas gift from her husband. Mrs. Collins received it the day before Christons and placed it with some other gene in her trunk. On that day Sloman, who was then in the employ of the American District Telegraph Company, as a messenger, answered a call to Mrs. Collins's room to carry a messaye.

Sioman, while waiting, was asked to take a seat next to the trunk containing the jewelry. The trunk was open.
"After the boy had gone," said first Collins to Justice McMahon this morning, "I went to the trunk to show the pin to a visitor. It was gone. I saw it there just before Sioman came, and the const was near the trunk after he no one was near the trunk after he left until I went to look for the pin. The case was reported at Police Head quarters at the time, and Detective Sergeant Mulholland was sent to investigate it.

quarters at the time, and Detective Sergeant Muholiand was sent to investigate it.

He saw Sioman shortly after his return from his errand and searched him, but the pin was not found, and as Sioman stoutly maintained his innocence and there being no convicting proof against him he was allowed to ge free.

"Sioman," said Detective Mulholland, "has, however, been kept under surveillance ever since. He was shadowed wherever he went. We found that he was spending a great deal of money quite freely, more in one day than he could earn as a messenger in a month. He attended expensive pinces of amusements regularly, with a different girl on every occasion. We concluded to find out where this money came from, and we arrested the suspect Saturiay night.

"He told me that he had money on deposit at his brother-in-law's, Mr. Menasses, who has a office in the Equitable Building, and that he was drawing funds from there. Mr. Menasses denied being Sioman's banker. Sioman's other statements are equally conflicting."

Sloman says that there was a cham-

Sloman says that there was a cham-bermaid besides himself in the room where the trunk was. Mrs. Collins swore this morning that this was not true.

"You were there alone." she said, looking sharply at the boy, "and I sus-pected you right away, because on your return you could not look me straight in the eyes."
